Dear Applicant,

Thank you for making an enquiry about a position at Lambeth College. I am delighted you have chosen to think about joining our exceptional team.

This College does one of the most important jobs in the country - educating people to help them to succeed in life and create the skills society needs. Moreover, we do it well. We have high standards, with good success rates for students and more students joining us each year. It is our staff who are the most important resource that the College has in securing this success.

We therefore value our staff highly and offer one of the best reward and benefits packages in the further education sector. We also respect and value the contribution of our staff and seek to engage the views of our colleagues regularly on major developments and important issues in the College. In return, when asked in our annual survey of staff views, very high numbers say they would recommend the College as a good place to work.

You have already shown that you are keen to be a part of our success by enquiring about a post with us. I hope that you will follow this enquiry through with an application.

I wish you well with your application and look forward to seeing successful candidates at a staff induction session in the near future.

Yours sincerely

Monica Box
